RUSSIANS CRUEL TO BASILIAN MONKS THROUGHOUT GALICIA

Vienna, June 7.—A description of monks in Galicia subjected by the Russian invaders is given by one of the monks' officers in the Vienna dispatch. According to this monk, the Russians arrested eight Basilian monks who had served as nurses early in September and took them to Tomsk. In October the superior of the Basilian monastery in Zolkein was taken to Russia with three other members of the order, one of whom was very ill, charged with having hidden the most dangerous enemy of the Russian people, the editor in chief of the religious monthly Der Missionar, who had strongly opposed the Russian propaganda in Galicia. The Basilian monastery was looted together with the printing office and bookshop and damages amounting to several hundred thousand dollars were inflicted. The superior of the Basilian monastery in Bukova was hanged to a tree because of anti-Russian sentiments. The superior of the monastery in Michalowska who was persecuted because of the Austrian movement among the local inhabitants, escaped the same fate only by flight.

KANSAS GIRL, MARRIED AT FAIR, PAYS FOR THE LICENSE

San Francisco, June 7.—They appeared before County Clerk Nash at Redwood City.

"I ought to purchase the marriage license," said Miss Anna Wells, of Buffalo, N. Y. "In these days of equal suffrage, it is woman's prerogative."

"Men always buy the marriage license," feebly interjected Joseph M. Shiner, of Topeka, Kan.

"Then I'll be the exception," said the girl.

She paid the $2 and was informed by the county clerk that although she had leased more than 5,000 marriage licenses, she had the distinction of being the first woman to pay for one.

Shiner gave his age as 37. His bride is 25.

MEN NOW ARE SCARCE IN THIS CANUCK TOWN

OUT OF 1,600 WAR VOLUNTEERS ONLY THIRTY-TWO ARE LEFT

Fighting in trenches near Ypres, Belgium, and sickness contracted while on the battlefield has almost depopulated one Canadian town of its male inhabitants, according to a letter received yesterday by J. W. Harrison. Of a regiment of 1,600 volunteers enlisting last October, but 32 remain alive, and they are confined in field hospitals, the letter states. Curtis Tedrow, a brother-in-law of Mr. Harrison, resides in Lenington, Ontario, and in that city men are nearly scarce since the war began.

When the call for volunteers went out last autumn, the regiment of 1,600 was formed immediately. It was sent to the front in three to face the hardships of winter and in the trenches filled with slush and mud the Canadian boys were shot or became ill from exposure. Slight hopes are held for the recovery of many of the few who survived the winter, the letter states.

Reports of the hardships withstood by the soldiers are only too true, Mr. Tedrow believes. The regiment from Lenington is not alone in suffering losses and in every case sickness played a part in the fatalities recorded in the allied armies.

Regardless of the fact that their friends and relatives are dying or being shot in battle, the plucky Canadians are still enlisting. When a call for more volunteers goes out from government offices men from somewhere appear to fill the ranks, the letter says.

But the little city of Lenington will send few more. There are not many more able to fight. Other towns more fortunate in the number of men lost are recruiting the English forces with company after company. They are facing the test of their history and every man is willing to fight for his nation.

Don't neglect a summer cold. A bronchial cough causes broken sleep and lowers your vitality. "MAKE MINE A MALTED MILK."

One hundred and forty-one thousand, two hundred times a year this order is repeated by students of the University of Wisconsin to Madison dealers, says the Madison Daily Cardinal.

These figures are not the result of guesswork, but are based on carefully compiled reports submitted by dealers in the university district.

Some idea of the vastness of the consumption of Horlick's Malted Milk by the students of this university alone may be gained when it is considered that the straw used in serving would, if placed end to end form a line thirteen miles long, while the total amount of Malted Milk would fill a reservoir of thirteen thousand gallons.

The investigation also developed the fact that the students do not order Malted Milk merely as a delicacy or a throat quencher, but because they have discovered that it is highly nourishing and sustaining qualities enable them to make a satisfying lunch on a "glass of Horlick's."

The total amount annually expended by the students in this manner is $14,120 and it is estimated that the saving through the resultant economy on restaurant checks represents at least an equal amount, or enough to pay all expenses for fifty students for one year at the university, or to buy two hundred students a high-class library of one hundred books each.

To Improve Expression As Well As Complexion

No face is really beautiful that lacks expression. Do you realize that continual use of powder and cream tends to spoil pliancy of skin and elasticity of expression? Why not quit cosmetics, use something better, which won't clog the pores or make the skin dry, busy or oily? Ordinary powdered face acts quite differently from any cosmetic. It is actually impoverishing any complexion, giving it life and expression. No gradually, harmoniously, softening off the thin veil of surface skin, it brings to view a pore, a wrinkle, a complexion, delicately beautiful and youthful. Ever drugging has this way: it is seldom more than a surface is needed. It is spread on nightly like cold cream and washed off mornings. In a week or two the transformation is complete.

UNGUARDED BORDER MENACE TO STATES

CANADIAN LINE IS ALMOST ENTIRELY UNPROTECTED FROM POSSIBLE ENGLISH ATTACK

New York, June 7.—It has often been said that along our 3,000 miles of international border on the north no forts, no pickets, no soldiers stand to guard either America from Canada or Canada from the United States. Such an unguarded border with its apparent implication of mutual security has been asserted to be unique.

The sparseness of the population in both the States and in Canada, their huge areas, the lack of standing armies tells in a nutshell why the immense boundary line is not fortified by either country.

Now, note the sequel. Starting from the upper end of New York state the international boundary slopes abruptly down to Lake Erie, where the British possessions touch their southernmost border. Thus, New York state is a thin wedge between Canada and the ocean, and also between New England and the rest of the United States. It is worth careful notice that in both the Revolutionary war and the war of 1812 the objective point of the British was to make a successful march from the international boundary to New York city, so as to split the country in two. The foregoing statements call attention to certain plain facts. There is no spot from which a land attack could be made upon us with a proper basis of supplies save from Canada. This would be equally a fact were Canada not a British colony. Now, up to the present time it is a fact that between this country and the European nations the chief ground for friction has been decidedly with England.

It is merely necessary to note that already in the present war pretty nearly every act by sea (save imprisonment of sailors) against which we have protested in the past, has been practiced by British ships on our vessels. Under these circumstances, veiled as they now are, it can not be said that under another administration we may not have trouble with England. Also, there is no certainty but what other and different realignments of the present combatants may not, in the end, occur. Germany is not the only nation in Europe which it is theoretically quite possible to conceive as attacking Canada. There are nearer nations than Germany, should present friends fall out; and anything touching Canada touches us.

The fact is, Canada, even aside from its British control, is disturbing, when not actually dangerous, to the United States, during any international war, as long as the Dominion has any political relations with a warring power. The very length of the boundary line, the vastness of the area involved, the facts which have brought about the pleasing remarks on the mutually friendly attitude of the two countries, would constitute the greatest danger if unfriendliness arose.

To Sleep Well in Summer. Slight inflammation of the bronchial tubes causes a distressing cough and makes sleep impossible. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound stops that annoying tickling and relieves the racking, drying cough. Good for all colds, coughs, croup and bronchial affections. Sold everywhere.
